Analysis

This legislation makes a number of amendments to the criminal code following consultation with the Alaska Criminal Justice Commission.

- The offense of Violating Conditions of Release is amended to be a B misdemeanor punishable by up to five days of imprisonment.
- The crimes of Sex Trafficking in the Third and Fourth degrees are amended to clarify that a person violates those statutes if they receive compensation for prostitution services which are rendered by another person.
- The presumptive sentence for a class C felony is amended to include a presumptive range of zero to 90 days if it is the person’s first felony conviction.
- Language is inserted to require a court to impose a period of probation for felony sex offenders.
- The misdemeanor sentencing structure is amended to allow a court to impose up to 60 days for persons who have been previously convicted of an offense similar in nature to their current offense.
- The crime of Theft in the Fourth Degree is amended to allow a court to impose a sentence of up to 10 days of imprisonment upon the third conviction.

The Department of Law does not anticipate a fiscal impact from this legislation.
