RE: HJR 32 - REMOVE WOOD BISON FROM ENDANGERED LIST

I respectfully request that HJR 32 be scheduled for hearing before the Senate Resources Committee at the earliest possible convenience.

The resolution asks Congress to remove wood bison from protected status under the Endangered Species Act.

Removing them from the list would be the single most important action that could be taken to facilitate their reintroduction and recovery – as it would remove the obstacles that have prevented their reintroduction. It is their status as protected, and the onerous restrictions that accompany them, that have kept them from being released into the wild in Alaska.

For questions related to this bill, please contact my legislative aide, Paul Verhagen at 465-2847.

Sponsor Statement

HJR 32: Wood Bison

A Resolution urging The United States Congress to remove wood bison from protection under the Endangered Species Act of 1973 and to grant control of wood bison in Alaska to the state.

The Alaska Department of Fish and Game (ADF&G) has been working to re-introduce wood bison into Alaska for many years. Wood bison are listed as an endangered species under the Endangered Species Act. The introduction of an endangered species into the wild brings with it significant restrictions on resource development and felony charges if they are harmed or hunted.

Under certain circumstances waivers of some of these restrictions are available and ADF&G has worked hard to negotiate such waivers. Last year they successfully concluded negotiations with the United States Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) and were preparing to release them into the wild when FWS notified them that a lawsuit had been filed challenging whether or not a protected species could ever be hunted.

At that time FWS notified ADF&G that it was willing to proceed with the rest of the negotiated agreement but not the hunting provision. ADF&G wisely elected not to proceed until such assurances are guaranteed. Although the hunting issue has since been resolved, in recent years numerous lawsuits, and petitions for injunctive relief, have been filed seeking to overturn already negotiated agreements or prevent new waivers from being approved.

An ever increasing number of these petitions or suits have been successful, thus the certainty of the negotiated rules cannot be guaranteed by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service - which removes the assurance that the waivers are intended to provide. If wood bison are reintroduced into the wild while they remain on the protected list hundreds of thousands of acres (if not more) of interior Alaska could be added to the over 200 million acres of coastal Alaska that have recently been locked-up by the addition to the list of polar bears and beluga whales alone.

As a result there are only three reasonable responses to the current situation.

1. Work to facilitate their removal from the ESA by asking congress to intervene and remove them from the list as they did recently with the grey wolves in the Lower 48 states.
2. Release them onto an island and allow them to proliferate there until they are removed from protection at which time they could safely be reintroduced onto previously occupied lands.
3. Do not reintroduce wood bison into the wild in Alaska, even with negotiated agreements, as long as they remain on the ESA's threatened or endangered list.

HJR 32 addresses the first response.

A RESOLUTION

1 Urging the United States Congress to remove wood bison from protection under the 2 Endangered Species Act of 1973 and to grant control of wood bison in Alaska to the 3 state.

4 BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF ALASKA:

5 WHEREAS the purpose of 16 U.S.C. 1531 - 1544 (Endangered Species Act of 1973)
6 ("the Act") is to protect or restore a species to a condition where continued existence of the 7 species is not threatened or endangered; and

8 WHEREAS free-ranging wood bison no longer exist in the United States but still 9 exist in healthy numbers in Canada; and

10 WHEREAS the State of Alaska would like to reintroduce wood bison in the state to 11 provide alternative hunting opportunities in rural areas, and providing this hunting 12 opportunity would be one of the main purposes for reintroducing wood bison in the state; and

13 WHEREAS wood bison are an endangered species and cannot be hunted without 14 federally approved exemptions to the Act; and

15 WHEREAS, if wood bison were reintroduced in the state in their current status,

1 resource development on the land they occupy could be significantly affected; and

2 WHEREAS, in an effort to avoid the restrictions on hunting and resource 3 development, the Department of Fish and Game negotiated with the United States Fish and 4 Wildlife Service exemptions under 16 U.S.C. 1533(d) and 1539(j) of the Act to allow hunting 5 of wood bison and to allow resource development on land used by wood bison; and

6 WHEREAS the certainty of the negotiated rules cannot be guaranteed by the United 7 States Fish and Wildlife Service; and

8 WHEREAS the negotiated rules are likely to be challenged; and

9 WHEREAS, after 20 years of protecting the gray wolf in other states, during which 10 time all of the original goals were met or exceeded, the United States Fish and Wildlife 11 Service could not remove the gray wolf from the endangered species list and return control to 12 the states because of litigation brought in the federal courts; and

13 WHEREAS, because numerous lawsuits have been filed in attempts to use the Act for 14 purposes other than to accomplish the stated goal, repeated requests were made to the United 15 States Congress to intervene; and

16 WHEREAS, in an unprecedented act, the United States Congress recently removed 17 the Montana and Idaho populations of the gray wolf from protection under the Act and 18 returned control to the respective states; and

19 WHEREAS, under the current situation, if wood bison were released in the state, their 20 habitat and any areas onto which they were to wander could become subject to the restrictive
21 provisions of the Act because of court action; and

22 WHEREAS significant resources in the state are at stake; and

23 WHEREAS the Donlin Creek mine is located well within wood bison traveling 24 distance, and, if wood bison were to wander to Donlin Creek, that $70,000,000,000 of 25 resources could easily be locked up, at a cost of $700,000,000 for each of the approximately 26 100 wood bison released; and

27 WHEREAS Canada, under the Species at Risk Act, has declared the wood bison
28 proposed to be sent to Alaska a surplus and has acknowledged that the loss of those wood 29 bison would not have a negative effect on the successful restoration of wood bison in Canada;
30 and

31 WHEREAS, for more than 70 years, the Department of Fish and Game has

1 successfully managed plains bison, which are genetically similar to wood bison, and wood 2 bison would prosper under similar management; and

3 WHEREAS, if the wood bison proposed to be reintroduced to the state are to be 4 under the protection of the Act and its accompanying restrictions relating to land development
5 and hunting, the State of Alaska has concerns related to the uncertainty of court intervention;

7 WHEREAS these facts serve to demonstrate this point: The wood bison's status on 8 the list of species protected under the Endangered Species Act of 1973 is what most 9 endangers them;

10 BE IT RESOLVED that the Alaska State Legislature urges the United States
11 Congress to exempt wood bison from protection under the Endangered Species Act of 1973
12 and to grant control of wood bison in Alaska to the state.

13 COPIES of this resolution shall be sent to the Honorable Barack Obama, President of 14 the United States; the Honorable Joseph R. Biden, Jr., Vice-President of the United States and 15 President of the U.S. Senate; the Honorable Harry Reid, Majority Leader of the U.S. Senate;
16 the Honorable Mitch McConnell, Minority Leader of the U.S. Senate; the Honorable John 17 Boehner, Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives; the Honorable Nancy Pelosi, 18 Minority Leader of the U.S. House of Representatives; the Honorable Ken Salazar, United 19 States Secretary of the Interior; and the Honorable Lisa Murkowski and the Honorable Mark 20 Begich, U.S. Senators, and the Honorable Don Young, U.S. Representative, members of the 21 Alaska delegation in Congress.
