This is the third time that I have clicked on a link to respond. And every time so far the response has acknowledged something entirely different to what I wrote. What is the point of responding? You don't even read the emails! I have lost total faith that individuals make any difference, as we obviously don't. To be an Alaskan and be treated with such indifference is an insult. And I quit trying to make any difference. The Division of Ag is a total waste of time and money and could save the State over $1 million if they would get rid of the Sarah Palin appointed Director that has been on the "on job training" for years and still hasn't done anything for the farming community except destroy the struggling dairy industry in South Central, only to benefit her family. I expect a return that states something nonsecular like "thank you for your response to the wind power" or some such nonsense that I have received i the past. How insulting!

Shoved down my throat and laughed about by you,
I remain shamed to be participating in your folly,
River
