FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2016 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

Analysis

HB 308 (proposed Alaska Statute 09.65.094) grants immunity from civil liability for persons who participate in the inspection, installation, or adjustment of a child safety seat, or who provide education regarding the installation or adjustment of a child safety seat, as long as certain conditions are met. In order for immunity to attach, the person must either have completed (and maintain) training offered by the National Child Passenger Safety Certification Training program, or must have arranged a non-profit educational program for the public by a certified technician, or must own property where a nonprofit education program or event, run by a certified technician, is taking place. In addition, the services provided must be without a fee, must be conducted in good faith, and must be within the scope of the training for which the technician is certified. The legislation would not apply to civil actions for damages which involve gross negligence or willful or wanton misconduct, nor does it apply if the inspection, installation, or adjustment of the child safety seat happens in conjunction with the sale of a child safety seat. Finally, the legislation does not apply to manufacturers of child safety seats, nor to their agents or employees.

The Department of Law does not foresee a fiscal impact should this legislation pass.
