List any community service, municipal government, and state positions held, and any awards received. I have volunteered for Special Olympics, Alaska for the past 8 years, coordinating with Camp Shriver and also working to create one of only two exercise facilities in the United States exclusively for Special Olympics, Athletes. I currently hold the position of "Strength and Conditioning Commissioner and Trainer" with Special Olympics, Alaska. I was the only non-union member to receive the "Volunteer of the Year" award by the Anchorage Fire Department, in response to my work initiating and continuing the 911 Fitness Challenge. I volunteered to teach health and nutrition at several elementary schools, gaining the support and participation of staff and administrators. I wrote an online column for Channel 2 called "2 Get Fit" for approximately one year. I wrote extensively for elementary school newsletters, promoting self care, both physically and emotionally.

Karen M. Cunningham, 43 (Karen conceded to provide her age, but asked to PLEASE not publicize her weight, and cautions that if anyone is researching her drivers license information, she MAY have been generous about her height, but really only by a fraction of an inch, and she rounded up, so technically it is accurate) of Anchorage, Alaska, holds a Masters Degree in Marriage and Family Therapy from Saybrook University. Karen, or "K-Dawg" as her kids call her, is a Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist working in Private Practice, creatively called "The Therapy Office of Karen Cunningham," and as a clinician and Associate Executive Director at The Couples Center of Alaska.
