FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2017 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

BILL NO. HB 151

Analysis

The proposed bill if enacted into law as introduced, would reform certain policies, standards and procedures that govern the placement, foster care, guardianship, and adoption of children in the custody of the Department of Health and Social Services (DHSS). This is largely through the Office of Children's Services (OCS).

The impact would strengthen the state's policies and programs for and in Child In Need of Aid (CINA) cases. It would promote family stability, caregiver participation in determination of outcomes for CINA cases and deeper involvement of parents, relatives, tribal and other non-governmental entities in reaching desired outcomes. The impact on the public sector would likely be to require more work and commensurate resources for OCS, and the Alaska Court System to achieve desired outcomes.

The impact on the private sector is difficult to predict. The Office of Public Advocacy (OPA), which administratively supports the Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) program, might experience some marginal increase in the demands upon CASA volunteers involved in CINA cases. Such an increase is not expected to result in any material impact upon the OPA budget or mission. Therefore, OPA submits a zero fiscal note.
