Dear Senate Committee,

Dear Senator,

Oil companies hugely profit off of the extraction and sale of Alaska's natural resources. Those resources belong to all Alaskans and it is your job to ensure they are developed and conserved for the benefit of all Alaskans, including future generations. Alaska has hugely benefited from oil and gas development in our state because we ensure that oil and gas companies pay their fair share. Those companies are raking in record profits, and Alaska is broke. The math is more straightforward than it may seem.

Thank you for fighting for the people of Alaska, not multinational corporations.

Fight for Alaska; not the oil companies. As their profits indicate their decisions do not rely on our state subsidizing them or, if they do, they are not a viable business. Dear Senate Committee,

Dear Senator,

I feel the Senate is shirking its fiscal responsibilities toward Alaska. We cannot just cut government spending; oil tax reform is one of the most important steps we need to take. It is not persuasive or responsible for Senators to argue that we have to keep the structure "stable" or any other excuse for inaction. It is not necessarily the case that whatever is best from the industry's perspective (ie least taxes) is best for Alaska - the two are different, not one and the same.

Please pass reasonable modifications to the oil tax structure as proposed by the House.

- End the sliding scale credit subsidy for legacy fields.

Subject: It's time we ALL chip in, please strengthen the oil tax bill.

Dear Senate Committee,

Dear Senator,

Recent Quarterly Financial Disclosures by the Oil Corps operating in Alaska revealed that Alaska is currently the most profitable place on the planet in which to drill for oil. In this economy, where we are asking Alaskans to chip in until it hurts (pfd, taxes, fees, tires, etc) it is long past time for oil companies to chip in as well. And it is even (longer) past due to end the oil tax subsidies which have proven to send us on the path to bankruptcy even quicker.

Please pass urgently necessary and totally reasonable modifications to the oil tax structure as proposed by the House by:

*Ending the sliding scale credit subsidy for legacy fields; *Ending cashable NOL credits Immediately; *Implementing strong ring-fencing provisions; *Hardening the tax floor, and *Further limiting the carryforward credit liability.

Thank your considering to put us Alaskan citizens and our children's future first among your considerations in solving our fiscal crisis.

Subject: HB111 Oil/Gas Production Taxes & Credits

Dear Finance Committee,

I will admit up front that I don't quite understand oil and gas tax credits. I've read through the description of HB 111 found at <http://akhouse.org/?bill=HB111>. I feel that the oil companies have made billions harvesting a finite natural resource out of this state and there is no reason why Alaska should be suffering. Why would oil companies be given any leeway on taxes to begin with. I've heard the reasoning that they wouldn't be able to get started without the credits but that makes no sense to me. I know it's all a money making venture and I also know that companies that make billions should be paying the state to allow them to do what they do. And that would include supporting education in a real way. Not small grants to non-profits but real contributions to this state's economy.

Everyone is sitting around discussing a $69 million dollar cut to education while natural gas leaks into Cook Inlet. Hilcorp should pay that $69 million for the pollution they've created. You're rolling your eyes and saying I don't understand how it works. I understand that big oil companies make billions while polluting our waters and land, while Pupil-Teacher Ratios rise with teacher cuts and students lose more and more opportunities to thrive in our schools. What isn't right with this picture?

Please do what is right for this state. Protect education and protect the environment. The oil companies will be just fine.

Thank you for their time,

Dear Senators,

I supported HB111 as passed by the House. Still do. From what I can see the Senate has gutted the bill. I'm not happy to have you take part of my PFD so you can give it to oil and gas companies. You need to pick up the pieces and put HB111 back together. Stop giving all our money away to outside corporations so we can fund schools, cops, and firefighters.

Thanks,

Senator Anna MacKinnon
State Capitol Room 516
Juneau AK, 99801

Dear Senator MacKinnon:

My name is Rainier Herczeg. I am a potential constituent, youth activist, and University of Alaska Anchorage undergraduate from District 14. I am writing to request your support for House Bill No. 111. HB 111 will move Alaska forward economically and environmentally. The Bill is currently under review by the Senate Finance Committee and has the potential to reduce Alaska's economic dependency on oil and gas, which could result in increased focus on renewable energy investment. HB 111 increases oil companies' minimum tax rate by 1% (4% to 5%), decreases the percentage of loss able to be converted into tax credit (35% to 15%), and lowers the caps for annual subsidies by half (70 million to 35 million) (Herz, 2017).

Alaska faces unique challenges as the only Arctic state in the nation and as a base for oil and gas production. As a young person in Alaska, planning for a sustainable future is my highest priority. As my representative, you have the opportunity to make great changes for the State of Alaska, and you have a responsibility to do what is right for future generations.

Please consider these facts regarding the passage of HB 111:

- The low price of oil is causing a large deficit for the State of Alaska. Even with increased production, the amount of revenue Alaska loses to tax credits (775 million) does not make up for the combined revenue from royalties (700 million) and production taxes (68 million) (DeMarban, 2016).
- By investing less money in fossil fuels, Alaska can increase funding for renewable energy projects. This will lower dependency on oil and gas, increase energy sustainability, and can financially benefit Alaskans. Since 2006, the Alaska Village Electric Cooperative (AVEC) has used wind turbines for 4% of the energy production and saved $8,000,000 in fuel costs (AVEC, 2015). In Kotzebue, the Kotzebue Electric Association uses wind farms to generate up to 20% of its electricity, saving from 1-1.25 million dollars a year, reducing the cost of electricity for residents by 10 cents per kilowatt hour (Edgerly, 2015).

- Alaska investing in renewable energy means that future generations will be able to enjoy its natural wonders. The Arctic is in grave danger from the threats posed by manmade climate change. The emission of nitrogen oxide from fossil fuel burning vehicles is one of the leading causes of our warming climate. The increased greenhouse gasses in the atmosphere trap the heat from the sun and warm the global climate (NASA, 2017). This affects Alaska in a dramatic way, Alaska's average temperature has increased by 3°F over the last 60 years. That twice as much compared to the rest of the nation. This warming negatively impacts infrastructure by warming the permafrost, increases the chance of forest fires, disrupts ecosystems for important Alaskan wildlife, and increases the rate of coastal erosion (EPA, 2017).

The points I listed above clearly show that it is time for Alaska to move its focus from oil and gas to sustainable, environmentally friendly, and economically advantageous energy investments. HB 111 will set us on that path. Once again I ask for your support on HB 111.

Respectfully Yours,

Rainier Herczeg
