FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2019 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

BILL NO. SB 33

Analysis

Senate Bill 33 changes the current statutes concerning bail decisions (sec. 7) , bail review hearings (sec. 4-6), third-party custodians (secs. 8-9), and the timing of arraignments (secs. 2, 3, and 14) to return those laws to the way they were before 2016, when SB 91 changed them. These changes may result in more bail hearings (to ascertain whether a proposed third-party custodian is acceptable to the judge, for example), but the court anticipates that it can absorb that impact. The bill also adjusts the credit a person can receive for time served pretrial to eliminate the ability to earn time while on electronic monitoring and to cap the credit for treatment at 180 days (secs. 10-13). Applying these revised laws is not anticipated to have a fiscal impact on the court system.

Sections 15 through 20 change the pretrial services program that was adopted in 2016 in SB 91. Courts will not receive a risk assessment score, but officers from the Department of Corrections will continue to provide supervision services for defendants released pretrial. These changes may also result in additional bail review hearings, but the court anticipates that it could absorb any increases from those changes.

SB 33 also includes legislative intent and a proposed court rule change (secs. 1, 22-23) concerning videoconference use for court hearings. With the increased focus on videoconferenced appearances for pretrial defendants, the court system is seeking two new positions: one trial court coordinator who would handle the many logistics and arrangements to expand the system statewide, and one technical IS (Information Services) person to set up and maintain equipment. The IS staff person would also need to travel statewide for troubleshooting and to provide ongoing technical assistance, and would incur certain limited costs for supplies and other contractual obligations. The cost would amount to the videoconference coordinator's salary and benefits (Range 18C, for a total of $105,400), the IS technician's salary and benefits (Range 18C for a total of $105,400), plus travel costs of ($5,000), supplies ($6,000), and contractual services ($3,000).

Therefore, at this time, the court system submits this fiscal note attributable to the increased use of videoconferences for pretrial hearings in criminal cases totaling $224,800.
