To Whom It May Concern,

One of my roles as the designated FBI Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Systems Officer (CSO) for the State of Alaska includes ensuring adherence to federal laws and policies relating to access to CJIS information. The FBI CJIS Security Policy requires a state and national fingerprint based background check for any employee accessing criminal justice information, either directly or indirectly. (Section 5.12.1)

This is to confirm that a state and national (fingerprint-based) criminal history background check was conducted on Amanda Price as a condition of her employment with the Department of Public Safety. These checks included a search of the Alaska Public Safety Information Network (APSIN), the national criminal history repository, other state criminal history repositories, and the National Crime Information Center (NCIC).

The results of these checks revealed no disqualifying information; therefore, Ms. Price has an approved security clearance to work around CJIS data.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Monfreda
Director
