

KTOO News ▾

KRNN ▾

KXLL ▾

Listen to KTOO

Listen to KRNN

Listen to KXLL

Alaska's Energy Desk

360 North

Home

News ▾

Listen ▾

Support ▾

Donate

Winter storm warning: heavy snow in Juneau starting Tues. evening

X

Eaglecrest beer and wine sales in flux after license denial from Alcohol Beverage Control Board

f t g+

By Adelyn Baxter, KTOO | October 16, 2018 | Business , Juneau , Outdoors , State Government

*The main lodge of Eaglecrest Ski Area on Douglas Island is at the base of the ski slopes rising in the background.
(Photo by Adelyn Baxter/KTOO)*

The state Alcohol Beverage Control Board has denied an application to begin selling beer

Winter storm warning: heavy snow in Juneau starting Tues. evening

X

KTOO News ▾

KRNN ▾

KXLL ▾

Listen to KTOO

Listen to KRNN

Listen to KXLL

Alaska's Energy Desk

360 North

Home

News ▾

Listen ▾

Support ▾

Donate

Winter storm warning: heavy snow in Juneau starting Tues. evening

X

The board voted unanimously Monday to deny the application.

Williams said Tuesday she was surprised by the decision and had already invested a significant amount of time and money into the business plan. She said she had been speaking daily with state regulators.

“If they were going to be this quick to deny the license, you know, why wouldn’t they have stopped the application process at its inception?” Williams said.

In a memo to board members Monday, Alcohol and Marijuana Control Office Director Erika McConnell said the application did not appear to meet the requirements of a recreational site license.

Among the reasons McConnell listed, she wrote that skiing and snowboarding “do not share the attributes of the examples listed in state statute.”

The Juneau Assembly approved the plan to start selling beer and wine at the ski mountain last year. The idea has been part of Eaglecrest’s master plan since 2012. At its meeting Monday, the Assembly waived its right to object to the specific license.

Eaglecrest General Manager Dave Scanlan said they will continue working with Williams. He’s staying optimistic about possible paths forward.

“What the timing’s going to be like? Not too sure, but we’re going to be moving full steam ahead on finishing up our renovation so our space is ready should we get approvals to operate,” Scanlan said.

Winter storm warning: heavy snow in Juneau starting Tues. evening

X

KTOO News ▾

KRNN ▾

KXLL ▾

Listen to KTOO

Listen to KRNN

Listen to KXLL

Alaska's Energy Desk

360 North

Home

News ▾

Listen ▾

Support ▾

Donate

Winter storm warning: heavy snow in Juneau starting Tues. evening

X

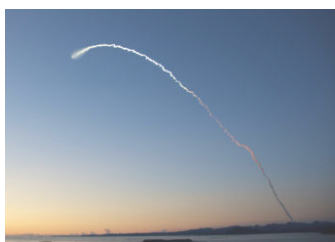

But she said she's open to looking at all options, especially if Eaglecrest's plan to become a year-round destination pans out.

"If it was going to be an operation that runs 95 days out of the year, I think that a seasonal, recreational site license was the best way to go," she said. "But looking at the big picture, maybe a beer and wine license is a good investment."

Although it seems likely the bar will not be operating this winter, Williams said she still hopes to create something the community will use and enjoy.

Recent headlines*Ravn changes baggage policy to only allow one free checked bag

Regional air carrier Ravn Alaska has a new baggage policy that begins this month, and only the first checked bag will fly free. A second checked bag

Alaska Aerospace Corp. proposes launch facility on Hawaii's Big Island

The corporation wants to build a facility in Hawaii to offer up to 24 commercial launches each year closer to the equator. It operates the

Credit rating agencies watch as Alaska pivots toward a new budget

Right now, there's a plan in place that kept the state's credit outlook stable. But there a new

House members talk about sharing power as speaker nomination fails

While no action occurred in the House, the Senate Finance subcommittees began meeting in preparation for the

Winter storm warning: heavy snow in Juneau starting Tues. evening

X