FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA 2021 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

Analysis

This legislation removes the 22 percent cap on the payroll contribution to the Public Employee Retirement System (PERS) for the State of Alaska as a PERS employer. All other PERS and TRS employers' rates will remain capped at 22 percent of payroll. The contribution cap, which is lower than the annual actuarial rate for the retirement system's normal and past service costs, was implemented to reduce the cost burden on PERS employers. The difference between the 22 percent and the full cost is subsidized by an unrestricted general fund annual payment to the retirement system known as the state assistance payment or "on-behalf" payment.

The Alaska Retirement Management Board approved an actuarially determined contribution rate for fiscal year 2022 for PERS employers of 30.11 percent. Under AS 39.35.280, the state is obligated to make up the difference between the statutory employer contribution rate of 22 percent and the actuarial rate of 30.11 percent, calculated to be $193.5 million. This legislation would direct the state to apply the 30.11 percent actuarial rate to agency payroll rather than contributing that amount through the state assistance payment. The net impact to the state's overall contribution to the retirement system would be unchanged.

This legislation only impacts the State of Alaska as a PERS employer, and excludes the University of Alaska, municipalities and school districts, and some state corporations.

The budgetary impact of this legislation will be reflected as a shift from the direct appropriation to the public employee retirement system, which is typically funded with unrestricted general funds (UGF), to agency payroll, where the cost can be spread across all fund sources. This legislation continues to provide for the full actuarial contribution to the retirement system while changing the financing structure in the state budget.

Page one of this fiscal note reflects the estimated $103,399.0, all fund sources, increase to State of Alaska executive, legislative and judicial branch payroll in fiscal year 2022, $64,514.2 of which will be UGF.

An accompanying fiscal note for retirement system payments reflects the $95,794.5 reduction in UGF.

Combined UGF savings total $31,280.3 in fiscal year 2022. UGF savings are expected to increase in fiscal years 2023 and beyond as rate-setting agencies have time to adjust rates based on actual costs, reducing the need for UGF offsets. The fiscal impact for fiscal years 2023 through 2027 assumes no changes in agency payroll or the actuarially determined rate.

The summary table on the following page reflects the net fiscal impact of this financing change for fiscal year 2022.
