Tony Knowles
Governor

Senator Leman moved and asked unanimous consent that the Joint Session stand in adjournment. Representative Berkowitz and Senator Ellis objected.

Senator Ellis moved to amend the motion to a time certain, that being 7:00 p.m.

President Halford stated the motion to amend the adjournment motion was debatable as to time, but the unqualified motion to adjourn takes precedence over the motion to amend.

Senator Leman restated his motion to adjourn the Joint Session. Objections were heard.

The question being: "Shall the Joint Session Adjourn?"

The roll of the House was taken with the following result:

Adjourn Joint Session?

In the Senate

Pursuant to adjournment the Senate was called to order by President Halford at 6:40 p.m.

The roll showed twenty members present.

The prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Senator Stevens. Senator Hoffman moved and asked unanimous consent that the prayer be spread. Without objection, it was so ordered.

Heavenly Father, thank You for this day - a day of opportunity to serve You and all Your children. Thank You for the bounty You have provided our great state. Give us guidance and intelligence so we may share what You have given us.

Forgive me for my sins of yesterday and of the days before and thank You for the strength to admit my wrongs so that I can see what is right for the days ahead.

Please Lord, watch over my mother, give wisdom to my father, protect my children and their mother. Give my friends, both new and old, the success and happiness You have shed on me.

Your presence continues to enlighten me as I see through Your eyes that the challenges we face today are insignificant in comparison to Your sacrifices. In Your Name, our Father, we pray, Amen.

Senator Cowdery led the Senate in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Messages from the Governor

Message dated May 14 was read, stating:

To the Alaska State Senate:

The legislative majority's unprecedented action Monday night did a great disservice to Alaskans willing to volunteer for public service by refusing to vote on the confirmation of citizens for important state boards. Alaska has 128 boards and commissions. Fulfilling their important functions requires the largely volunteer service of approximately 1,000 Alaskans who temporarily put their families, jobs, and lives aside for public service.

The Legislature's politically motivated refusal to fulfill its most basic function -- voting -- sends a terrible message to the 13 Alaskans directly affected and to every Alaskan who may consider public service. It is hard enough to attract volunteers to often thankless work, but the legislative majority's rude treatment of its fellow Alaskans will make that task even more difficult.

If left to stand, the legislative majority's action will cripple vital state boards. Rejecting the appointments of five members of the seven-member state Board of Game will shut down the board, which, without a quorum, will be unable to fulfill its most important function -- considering public opinion as it makes important decisions about management of Alaska wildlife. Upcoming issues include trapping and deer and elk management.

The Board of Fisheries, meanwhile, will lose three members by your refusal to vote, again hindering its core function of hearing from the public on fisheries management. Its upcoming schedule includes consideration of Copper River salmon, one of the most popular fisheries in the world.

In both cases -- the fish and game boards -- Alaska's successful management system is built on the concept of a citizen volunteer board and citizen participation in the regulatory process. Your action puts that system in jeopardy.

As for education, the next meeting of the State Board of Education and Early Development is scheduled next month as a joint session with the University of Alaska Board of Regents to improve the training of Alaska's teachers. Meanwhile, the education board's School Designator Committee, tasked with the critical job of measuring school performance and identifying the progress of each school, will have only a single member. As you know, its decisions will generate significant public attention and change the way all Alaskans think about their local schools. Surely you don't intend to hinder the work of this committee.

Your action also slows the work of the Board of Regents and casts a confusing cloud over the accomplishments of Alaska students and families. Regents appointee Marlene Johnson, for instance, is scheduled to attend a commencement ceremony in Kotzebue on Wednesday. Your refusal to confirm this distinguished Alaskan sends an unclear message to Alaskans awaiting her presence at commencement. The student regent, Joseph Hardenbrook, is familiar to many of us in the Capitol and is a fine young leader. Your action is a slap in the face to his family, which was in Fairbanks for his graduation and watching your confirmation session Monday night. In addition, if your action doesn't change, there will be no student representation on the Board of Regents for a year because the student government nominating process takes that much time.

I urge you in the strongest possible terms to reconsider your refusal to vote on these confirmations. If there are reasons some legislators don't support these nominees, let them vote publicly and explain their actions. By not voting, you cripple the public policy work of important state boards and, worse, unfairly diminish the value of volunteerism and public service.

Sincerely,

Tony Knowles
Governor
