I've lived in Alaska for over 40 years and ever since arriving here in the 1980's there have been several attempts and LOTS of talk about a gas pipeline from the North Slope. Finally we are closer than ever with a company, Glenfarne, who is willing to put billions of their own capital into building such a pipeline.

In yesterday's ADN opinion piece by Jim Jansen and Ron Duncan, they succinctly summarize why the State should support and encourage the project and not kill it for vague and nebulous reasons. They write, "the conditions for commercial success have never been better, and Alaskans should help to push the plan forward." They continue "The pieces that must come together for a project of this scale are not theoretical anymore. They are finally possible and there is momentum." They conclude with "It takes more than being hopeful. The governor and the Legislature must provide leadership, support and encouragement....We all need to work together to get to yes."

I could not say it any better.

Please stop studying, delaying, discussing and start supporting, and taking action to make it become a reality.

Thank you,
