LIFE-CHANGING RESULTS FOR ALASKANS

Alaska Legal Services Corporation (ALSC) is a private, non-profit law firm that provides free civil legal help to low-income clients and seniors. We are dedicated to assuring that all Alaskans have equal access to our civil justice system, not just those who can afford an attorney.

In the process of providing access to justice for Alaska's most vulnerable residents, ALSC produces millions of dollars of quantifiable economic impacts. ALSC maximizes this impact by partnering with local governments and other nonprofits to coordinate services and leverage scarce dollars. Through these efforts, ALSC is able to maintain a physical presence in rural Alaska and is the only private provider of comprehensive free legal services to do so. Every dollar invested in ALSC generates five dollars in economic benefit to ALSC's clients, their communities, and the state.*

THE JUSTICE GAP

When serious legal needs of low-income people go unmet due to grossly insufficient funding and support, it creates an enormous "justice gap". The justice gap is an extreme reality for low-income individuals who suffer a civil injustice.

An applicant unable to obtain assistance risks losing their home, healthcare, access to food, or their ability to protect themselves or family members against abuse. These unresolved problems can multiply, tearing families apart and driving them further into poverty with consequences that destabilize the social and economic fabrics of communities.
