

I fully support term limits of members to both houses of the Alaska legislature. While it's intended purpose is to allow more Alaskans an opportunity to serve, which it will and with which I agree, it will break the deadlock of ineffective do-nothing career politicians. Eight CONTINOUS years is more than enough time to establish oneself. If a member is that good he or she will be voted back after a well deserved break. That alone will level-up the pool of candidates.

Can you imagine? We deserve better and I'm tired of waiting.

Thank you,
