

February 3, 2025

Dear Committee Chair and Members,

We would like to take this opportunity to update you on our current position related to SB54. AIA Alaska worked with Senator Claman and NCIDQ interior designers to address our primary concerns that were part of previously proposed interior design legislation. We appreciate SB54 Sponsor's willingness to compromise by offering a Title Act rather than the Practice Act bills that were proposed in previous sessions. Establishing a Title Act is the essential condition for AIA Alaska to remove opposition and remain neutral to interior design regulation. AIA Alaska does not support interior design registration through a Practice Act.

Senator Claman introduced SB 54 this session as a Title Act, with language to allow permitting privileges for interior designers through the use of a stamp (seal). AIA Alaska appreciates the clarity provided by Legislative Counsel, Conran Gunther in his January 15, 2025 memo that accompanied the draft bill. He stated, "A title act does not require a license to practice an occupation, rather it establishes an optional license that allows a person to use a protected title when practicing that occupation." He further stated, "[This bill draft] does not prohibit the practice of interior design by a person who does not use the title 'registered interior designer.'" This is articulated in Sec. 13 of the bill.

We understand that changes to bills often occur during the legislative process, and we will participate in hearings and meetings to ensure that SB54 remains a Title Act bill. If any revisions occur to this bill that change the intent of the bill from being a Title Act with permitting privileges, AIA Alaska will reevaluate our position.

Again, thank you for ongoing attention to this matter and your service to our community.

Sincerely,

RE: Support for 2025 AK SB 54

Dear Chairman Bjorkman and members of the Senate Labor and Commerce Committee,

On behalf of the Council for Interior Design Qualification (CIDQ), I write to you today in support of Senate Bill 54, which would protect the health, safety, and welfare of the public if passed.

CIDQ is the premiere certifying organization for interior design professionals. Our organization develops and administers the three-part NCIDQ Examination, the national interior design certification examination utilized by U.S. jurisdictions for interior design registration or licensure, which assesses the competency of candidates to protect the public through the practice of interior design. With a membership comprised of state regulatory boards from across the United States and Canada, our organization takes seriously the responsibility to protect the public's health, safety and welfare, a responsibility our certified interior designers share.

NCIDQ-Certified Interior Designers are required to undergo formal postsecondary education and thousands of hours of paid, supervised experience to sit for the examination, which tests interior designers' knowledge of core competencies required for professional practice in the industry. This combination of education, experience, and examination helps ensure minimal competency of our certificate holders in the distinct practice of interior design, most of which practice in commercial, code-based environments like office buildings, hotels, hospitals, schools, etc. Our certificate holders are trained, tested, and qualified to design safe, functional public spaces in their practice.

Reasonable regulation of interior designers utilizing the NCIDQ Exam provides a means of offering the state and the public assurance that interior designers are qualified to practice in a manner that protects the public in Alaskan public spaces. CIDQ is prepared and committed to working with the Alaska AELS board and staff, as we do with all our member boards, to implement this bill, to protect health, safety, and welfare, and ensure that practicing Registered Interior Designers in Alaska are trained and competent. We thank the committee for considering this legislation and ask for a favorable report on this bill. Thank you, and I'm happy to be a resource to the committee to answer questions about the NCIDQ exam.

Sincerely,

Matthew R. Barusch

Senate Labor and Commerce Committee

Chair Bjorkman and Members of the Committee:

I would like to offer four points that support SB 54, registration for Interior Design

- The purpose of SB 54 is to protect public health, safety and welfare in code-regulated buildings whose primary use is public occupancy. It offers interior designers providing these services the ability to submit plans for review without direct supervision of another design professional, through meeting national qualification standards of education, experience, and certification and becoming registered with the State of Alaska.
- Registration removes restrictions rather than adding to them by allowing qualified interior designers to become registered and to practice to the full extent of their education, and experience. Enabling interior designers to be named the designer of record on interior DOD contracts to leading tenant improvement project teams such as the one that completed the renovations to the Anchorage Legislative Office Building and the relocation of state agencies into the Atwood Building. It provides registered interior designers the ability to submit their own stamped, signed non-structural construction drawings and specifications for permitting. Currently in Alaska, if a stamp is required, an architect must assume full responsibility for the work to stamp the documents.
- It is compatible with other design professions practicing in Alaska. Architects are exempt and unaffected by this regulation; residential interior designers are exempt for single- family up to 4-plex structures as they are currently; interior designers who do not wish to become registered may continue to work, exactly as they do now, under the supervision of a registered or licensed professional, but this bill adds a registered interior designer category to those professionals who may supervise their work.
- This legislation will be self-funded through application and registration/renewal fees under the AELS registration board and is designed to integrate into AS 08.48, the statute governing regulation for architects, engineers, land surveyors, and landscape architects. This bill is good for our economy by encouraging in-migration rather than out-migration of design professionals to Alaska and by supporting small businesses, women owned businesses, and expanding consumer choice for qualified design professionals.

We look forward to seeing positive results from the Labor and Commerce hearing on SB 54 and hope that these points help to offer clarity for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Sen. Claman,

I am an interior designer in support of SB54. This bill moves the needle in a substantive way to protect public health, safety, welfare, and well-being. It expands opportunities for qualified design professionals and ensures Alaska remains competitive on DoD projects whose scopes include Comprehensive Interior Design.

Please pass SB54. Thank you!

Dear Alaska Senate Labor and Commerce Members:

On behalf of the National Council of Examiners for Engineering and Surveying (NCEES), thank you for the opportunity to comment on Senate Bill 54 (SB 54). NCEES proudly voices its support for the Alaska State Board of Registration for Architects, Engineers, and Land Surveyors, the state licensing board for professional engineers and professional surveyors, among other fields. Our organization is advocating for an eight-year continuation of the board as we continue to champion licensure's public protections and develop and maintain licensure pathways for engineers and surveyors.

Since its establishment, the Alaska State Board of Registration for Architects, Engineers, and Land Surveyors has played an integral role in protecting the health, safety, and welfare of Alaskans. With over 5,000 licensed practitioners, the board oversees licensure requirements, enforces licensure law, and ensures its professional engineers and professional surveyors abide by national standards. These licensure requirements and regulations are in place to make sure that only qualified individuals receive and practice with a professional license. Thus, the board is instrumental in safeguarding critical state infrastructure and ensuring site improvement projects are safely conducted each year—all of which impact the daily lives of Alaskans.

As the national organization representing 69 state licensing boards for engineering and surveying, NCEES understands the importance of regulating engineering and surveying licensure and having adequate subject-matter experts on each licensing board to ensure the public's health, safety, and welfare. Professional board members are essential to discerning areas of practice overlap and determining improper practice.

For these reasons, NCEES implores you to vote for the continuation of the Alaska State Board of Registration for Architects, Engineers, and Land Surveyors. We believe that the board's mission to protect the public health, safety, and welfare of Alaska through licensure is too important to interrupt or jeopardize.

We appreciate the opportunity to weigh in on SB 54, as it is of the utmost importance to our organization. NCEES will continue to support the Alaska board as it works to protect Alaskans and the state's unique environments by upholding the importance of consistency and effectiveness in licensure requirements across the country and within the state.

Sincerely,

Davy McDowell, P.E.
Chief Executive Officer

Senate Finance Committee
Senator Jesse Bjorkman, Chair

Dear Senator Bjorkman,

Please Pass SB54, extending the AELS Board and providing registration for interior designers.

This bill establishes requirements for the practice of registered interior design, providing qualified interior designers the opportunity to take responsibility for their scope of work with independent stamp and seal privileges.

SB54 will ensure that Federal Government projects requiring registration for all design disciplines can include Alaska-registered interior designers, rather than hiring interior designers registered out-of-state.

This bill allows Alaska interior designers to practice as they currently are, or to become registered with stamp and seal privileges. It will attract and retain young professionals seeking Alaska registration, keep federal project design revenue and registration fees in Alaska; and increase workforce development opportunities.

Thank you for your consideration, and all you do for Alaska!
Respectfully Yours,

Dear Senator Bjorkman,

As an Alaska architect, I'm writing to ask your support for SB54 to extend the AELS Board and create registration for interior designers.

I have worked with interior designers qualified by education, experience, and national examination, who are capable of providing their own non-structural interior construction documents within their scope of work. So I support establishing interior design registration with permitting privileges as provided in SB54.

Thank you for your support.

To: the Alaska Senate Labor and Commerce Committee,

The Alaska Professional Design Council (APDC) is a non-profit organization that serves as the voice of 1,000 design professionals across the state. Our members include licensed professionals who are committed to protecting the health, safety, and welfare of the public, as well as those seeking licensure to do the same. Together, our member organizations work collaboratively to represent the common interests of Alaska's design professionals and advocate for the advancement of the design practices represented.

We are writing in support of the passage of SB 54, which proposes to extend the AELS board for 8 years, incorporate changes requested by the AELS board, and add Registered Interior Designers as another discipline regulated under the AELS board. Interior designers are responsible for designing and modifying interior spaces in both public and private buildings. Their work involves non-structural design elements that can impact life-safety, such as accessibility, exiting access components, fire ratings of walls, and fire ratings of finishes.

Currently, there are no requirements for qualifications in Alaska for providing interior design services within buildings. By introducing registration opportunities for qualified Interior Designers, the public can be assured that those engaging in this work have the necessary education, experience, and examination qualifications to stamp and seal their own design drawings for plan review and permitting, as with other design professionals.

Passage of SB 54 would allow qualified Interior Designers the autonomy to independently take responsibility for their own work.

As the APDC, we stand firmly in support of this bill and are available as a resource to answer any questions you may have. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

John Pekar, P.E.

APDC President
