To Whom it May Concern;

I am a second generation fisherman, from Soldotna, Alaska. I have worked in Lower Cook Inlet, Bristol Bay, Kodiak and Prince William Sound as a deckhand and eight of my family members fish around South Central Alaska, some of whom I now provide "shore support" for. Duncan Fields is a man of strong moral character, of stable mind, and reasonable nature. He has immense first-hand knowledge of state commercial fisheries through his own multi-generational set-gillnet operation on Harvester Island and multi-species and regional management through his time serving on the North Pacific Fishery Management Council. In addition to his experience he is trained and savvy in the details of fisheries regulation and I cannot think of a better person to make decisions on State fisheries issues than him.

Thank you for your time and consideration,

Abigail Turner-Franke
