Press Release Wording

Teresa Sager Albaugh, 54, of the Tok Cutoff near Mentasta Pass, is employed by Summit Consulting Services, Inc. Teresa was first appointed to the Board of Game by Governor Palin in 2009. She is a lifelong Alaskan, born in Fairbanks and raised in an avid hunting and fishing family. Teresa moved to the Mentasta Pass area in 1984. She and her husband, Bill, live in a two-room cabin without running water and appreciate their simple, wholesome lifestyle. Teresa has served on the boards of the Alaska Outdoor Council and Slana Alaskans Unite, and is a life member of the NRA. She worked during the '80s and '90s for Interior members of the Alaska Legislature, and in 1996 began work for Summit Consulting Services, a construction management and design firm specializing in remote Alaska community improvement projects. Teresa and her husband hunt, fish, trap and gather wild resources throughout the year. They also raise a garden, two greenhouses, and occasional livestock. Teresa's transition from living in Fairbanks to the Tok Cutoff gives her a unique perspective and deep appreciation for the hunting, trapping, and wildlife conservation values held by both urban and rural Alaskans. Teresa relies on the state constitution, field observation, love of the outdoors, and a common sense approach to her service on the board.
