FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2018 LEGISLATIVE SESSION*Analysis

The revisions to the Alaska Business and Industrial Development Corporation (BIDCO) Act will eliminate the annual examination requirement yet retain the division's authority to conduct an examination when needed. Examiners have found no substantive problems with violations of Alaska law during the annual examination process.

The assistance program was designed to help start-up BIDCOs with initial capital to make business loans for small to medium size companies located throughout the state including rural and distressed areas and minority-owned businesses. The program was to be funded with the Alaska BIDCO fund, which was never funded by the legislature. The provision has never been used.

Regulations will be amended to reflect these changes. The Division of Banking and Securities does not anticipate fiscal impact from this legislation.
