1. Work Requirements
2. State Penalties for Payment Errors
3. Administrative Cost Sharing for the State

Medicaid: Alaska Impacts

Our core Medicaid funding remains stable.

- Alaska will experience different impacts than many other states due to the unique structure of our Medicaid program and the bill's built-in exemptions.
- Alaska does not rely on provider taxes or state-directed payments, which are significantly affected by the bill and drive some of the largest projected funding losses elsewhere.

Community Engagement Requirements

- Most able-bodied adults ages 19–64 will now need to complete 80 hours per month of work or other qualifying activities.
- Qualifying activities include
  - Job training
  - Education
  - Volunteer service
- Seasonal income flexibility: Averaged income over six months in lieu of 80 hours/month requirement.
- Effective December 31, 2026, but the state may apply to phase in implementation through 2028 under a good faith waiver.

Mandatory Exemptions

- Many Alaskans are exempt from the work requirements
- The bill includes mandatory exemptions for individuals who are:
  - Pregnant or within the postpartum coverage period
  - Alaska Native or American Indian
  - Have a significant physical, intellectual, or developmental disability
  - Are blind or disabled
  - Experiencing a substance use disorder or disabling mental health condition
  - Have a serious or complex medical condition
  - Medically frail individuals
  - Veterans with a total disability rating
  - Enrolled in Medicare
  - A parents or caregiver for a child under 13 or someone with a disability
  - Recently incarcerated (within 90 days)
  - Under age 26 and formerly in foster care
  - SNAP or TANF eligible

Optional Exemptions

States may also grant short-term hardship event exemptions for:

- People living in areas with high unemployment
- Those in federally declared disaster areas
- Individuals receiving inpatient or residential care
- Those traveling for medically necessary care that is not locally available
