Alaska Statewide Mentor Program:

Question: Representative Wilson wants to know how much the University of Alaska receives from the Department of Education and Early Development for the ASMP.

Response: The Reimbursable Services Agreement with the University of Alaska for FY2012 is $962,952. The University arranges and pays for travel, materials and supplies, training, implements recruitment strategies, matches mentors with teachers, evaluates mentor performance and conducts project evaluation related to teacher retention rates and student achievement as well as other activities.

EED provides the financial oversight for the appropriation, participates in the selection of mentors, negotiates for any mentors on loan from the school districts and issues contractual payments for individual mentor services for their defined scope of work. EED also provides all the student level data and defines the research objectives.
