Parents as Teachers™ Alaska

All children will learn, grow and develop to realize their full potential.

Parents as Teachers (PAT) is an evidence-based parent education and family support program serving families throughout pregnancy until their child enters kindergarten.

This universal program is designed to:

- Enhance parent knowledge of child development and improve parenting practices.
- Increase early detection of developmental delays and health issues.
- Promote safe and healthy relationships to prevent child abuse and neglect.
- Improve school readiness and school success.

Families engage in personal visits, typically in their home, with certified parent educators; attend group socials; receive developmental, health, hearing and vision screenings; and are linked to community resources.
