Corrected 2/11/14

The percentage of professional licensing boards with a deficit at the end of a biennium has increased

- 41% (or 15 out of the 37) in FY08/FY09
- 71% (or 27 out of the 38) in FY10/FY11
- 79% (or 30 out of the 38) in FY12/FY13

In FY12/FY13, the professional licensing board's deficit totaled $3,796.6.

At the end of FY13 all professional licensing boards had a combined carryforward balance of $2,605.4. However, if you remove the Board of Medical (with a $1,449.5 carryforward balance) and the Board of Nursing & Nurse Aides (with a $1,564.9 million carryforward balance) the remaining professional licensing boards have deficits totaling $409.0.

1. What will happen if the professional licensing boards continue to deficit spend at the FY12/FY13 rate and the carryforward balance is depleted during the next biennium?
2. Will professional licensing boards with a surplus carryforward balance be restricted in expenditures due to other professional licensing boards deficit carryforward balance?
3. At any point will the professional licensing boards have a cash problem since not all of the boards revenue is collected in the first year of the biennium?
