FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2014 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

BILL NO. SB 201

Analysis

This bill repeals two portions of the definition of “enters or remains unlawful,” an element to the crimes of criminal trespass. AS 11.46.350(b) provides that a person who enters upon unimproved and apparently unused land, which is neither fenced nor otherwise enclosed in a manner designed to exclude intruders, does so lawfully unless notice against trespass is personally communicated to him by the owner of such land or other authorized person, or unless such notice is given by posting in a conspicuous manner.

“This provision is designed to expressly exclude from the scope of the offense of criminal trespass, a person who enters upon unimproved and apparently unused land when there is no indication of apparent prohibition against such intrusion. The innocence of a typical trespass where an individual hiker walks without consent upon the unfenced, unposted land of another, and its frequency in a state dominated by wilderness and public land interspersed with private land, prompts the conclusion that such a minimal intrusion upon the land of another should not be a criminal offense unless reasonable notice is given the trespasser not to enter or remain on such property.”

Tentative Draft III page 3, Criminal Code Revision Committee page 54, Representative Terry Gardner, Chair.

This deletion will increase the number of entries onto premises which will be illegal. AS 11.46.350(c) repeals language which set standards of signage for notification against trespass. The number of entries onto land which will become illegal with these sections being repealed is indeterminate and hence the increased cost for prosecuting this new illegal conduct is unknown.
