Personal Statement:

Growing up in the rural Alaskan community of Glennallen, I realized the need for dental care at a young age. For many years, families would have to commute 180 miles into Anchorage to reach the nearest dentist. Experiencing the need for dental care first hand was my initial inspiration to attend dental school.

Upon graduation from the University of Louisville School of Dentistry in May of 2004, I returned to Alaska to provide high quality dental care in the state that I love.
