Dear Committee members:

As a rural resident, property owner, commercial fishing business owner, and working waterfront service provider, my husband and I typify much of coastal Alaska's economy make up.

Pulling the Fish Landing and Fish Business taxes away from the municipalities is a very, very poor and hugely disruptive move. We as rural residents, in so many fundamental ways, contribute, rely and replenish this tax base to our community.

Bad idea, not real and no room to comprise. The current tax split with the state has been revised already to a 50/50 split in recent years, and there really is no more room for the state to justify more.

Vote against this bill. Keep the tax split as is. We pay our share. We need back our share.
