Dear House State Affairs,

I write this email to support HB 82, which would add critical protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to the Alaska State Non-Discrimination Clauses. I believe an Alaskan's freedom from discrimination and fear is a basic right that should be extended to all -- no matter their identity. Current state law provides no avenue for legal recourse in the event of discrimination, meaning marginalized communities like the LGBTQ community and their friends and families live in jeopardy that resources and rights could be taken away at any moment. All Alaskans deserve to have a seat at the table and that requires protecting the voices of all our community members.

While some cities in Alaska have ordinances and resolutions protecting these identities, many cities and communities are left vulnerable to legal discrimination. Our safety and access should not be contingent on our zip code. We need clear, explicit protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to ensure Alaskans' rights are protected across the board. There is no room for discrimination in our state. So I urge you to support HB 82 and reaffirm that the State of Alaska celebrates and protects all Alaskans.

Sincerely,

Luke Williams

I think everyone can agree that this is the moral and correct way for things to be. It is a little sad that we have to have a law to try to make it a reality.

Dear House State Affairs,

I write this email to support HB 82, which would add critical protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to the Alaska State Non-Discrimination Clauses. As a queer person in Anchorage, I count myself lucky to live in a supportive community, one that affords equal protections for people like me. But the minute I step outside of the Municipality, I'm reminded of my inequality -- unlike many friends and neighbors, I lack freedom from discrimination in public accommodation and a wide range of public services. I'm proud of Anchorage's hard-fought protections for queer and trans residents, and I'm ready for our most most vulnerable Alaskans to gain these same sets of freedom under state law.

An Alaskan's freedom from discrimination and fear is a basic right that should be extended to all -- no matter their identity. Current state law provides no avenue for legal recourse in the event of discrimination, meaning marginalized communities like the LGBTQ community and their friends and families live in jeopardy that resources and rights could be taken away at any moment. All Alaskans deserve to have a seat at the table and that requires protecting the voices of all our community members.

While some cities in Alaska have ordinances and resolutions protecting these identities, the majority of Alaskan communities are left vulnerable to legal discrimination. Our safety and access should not be contingent on our zip code. We need clear, explicit protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to ensure Alaskans' rights are protected across the board. There is no room for discrimination in our state. So I urge you to support HB 82 and reaffirm that the State of Alaska celebrates and protects all Alaskans.

I recently met someone who identified as 'gay' and happens to be a teacher and writer. He was teaching a workshop and afterwards told me he won't be staying in Alaska - specifically living in Fairbanks because he doesn't feel welcome here. That broke my heart. How could anyone of us make another human being feel unwelcome in our State? Please support this bill and let's correct that wrong. Let's work on creating that culture of acceptance, caring that I know we are capable of.

Sincerely,

Princess Lucaj

Dear House State Affairs,

I write this email to support HB 82, which would add critical protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to the Alaska State Non-Discrimination Clauses. I believe an Alaskan's freedom from discrimination and fear is a basic right that should be extended to all -- no matter their identity. Current state law provides no avenue for legal recourse in the event of discrimination, meaning marginalized communities like the LGBTQ community and their friends and families live in jeopardy that resources and rights could be taken away at any moment. All Alaskans deserve to have a seat at the table and that requires protecting the voices of all our community members.

While some cities in Alaska have ordinances and resolutions protecting these identities, many cities and communities are left vulnerable to legal discrimination. Our safety and access should not be contingent on our zip code. We need clear, explicit protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to ensure Alaskans' rights are protected across the board. There is no room for discrimination in our state. So I urge you to support HB 82 and reaffirm that the State of Alaska celebrates and protects all Alaskans.

Sincerely,

Ms Deborah Poore

As a community we tried to change that in Fairbanks, only to watch a single person take those hard won rights away. Our safety and access should not be contingent on our zip code or the personal beliefs of a single person.

There is no room for discrimination in our state. So I urge you to support HB 82 and reaffirm that the State of Alaska celebrates and protects all Alaskans.

Dear House State Affairs,

I write this email to support HB 82, which would add critical protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to the Alaska State Non-Discrimination Clauses. I believe an Alaskan's freedom from discrimination and fear is a basic right that should be extended to all -- no matter their identity. Current state law provides no avenue for legal recourse in the event of discrimination, meaning marginalized communities like the LGBTQ community and their friends and families live in jeopardy that resources and rights could be taken away at any moment. All Alaskans deserve to have a seat at the table and that requires protecting the voices of all our community members.

While some cities in Alaska have ordinances and resolutions protecting these identities, many cities and communities are left vulnerable to legal discrimination. Our safety and access should not be contingent on our zip code. We need clear, explicit protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to ensure Alaskans' rights are protected across the board. There is no room for discrimination in our state. So I urge you to support HB 82 and reaffirm that the State of Alaska celebrates and protects all Alaskans.

Sincerely,
Jim Steffen

Our safety and access should not be contingent on our zip code. We need clear, explicit protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to ensure Alaskans' rights are protected across the board. There is no room for discrimination in our state. So I urge you to support HB 82 and reaffirm that the State of Alaska celebrates and protects all Alaskans.

Thank you for hearing my hopes for Alaska's future

Sincerely
Connor Eller

Dear House State Affairs,

I write this email to support HB 82, which would add critical protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to the Alaska State Non-Discrimination Clauses. I believe an Alaskan's freedom from discrimination and fear is a basic right that should be extended to all -- no matter their identity. Current state law provides no avenue for legal recourse in the event of discrimination, meaning marginalized communities like the LGBTQ community and their friends and families live in jeopardy that resources and rights could be taken away at any moment. All Alaskans deserve to have a seat at the table and that requires protecting the voices of all our community members.

While some cities in Alaska have ordinances and resolutions protecting these identities, many cities and communities are left vulnerable to legal discrimination. Our safety and access should not be contingent on our zip code. We need clear, explicit protections for sexual orientation, gender expression, and gender identity to ensure Alaskans' rights are protected across the board. There is no room for discrimination in our state. So I urge you to support HB 82 and reaffirm that the State of Alaska celebrates and protects all Alaskans.

Sincerely,

Halle Savage
