Would you buy a $37 hamburger?

- DHSS's proposed regulations would increase rates as much as 140%
- If enacted, proposed rates would vastly exceed average regional costs of assisted living care ($5,000-$6,000/month in Pacific Northwest)
- Key concept: "Elasticity of demand"
- Pricing out self-pay residents would put state on hook for more GF spending
- Sustainable revenue increases are preferable to sky-high prices that nobody will actually pay.
