Dear Senator Peter Micciche:

Thank you for taking the time to consider my thoughts on the appointment of Jeremy Price to the Alaska Oil and Gas Conservation Commission (AOGCC). AOGCC serves a critical role in overseeing the exploration and production of oil and gas. Its mission is to prevent waste and improve ultimate recovery of hydrocarbons while protecting the environment and the public.

Jeremy was born and raised in Alaska. Hailing from the Interior community of Salcha, he understands firsthand the energy challenges of the state. He loves Alaska like I do. I believe that is a prerequisite to faithfully serving on any board or commission.

Jeremy diligently served Alaskans in Washington, DC and more recently, in Juneau. He has a working knowledge of Alaska's oil and gas industry, and with the experience of working for Alaska's statewide elected leaders, he is well equipped to represent the public interest in regulating the oil and gas industry. I urge you to support his appointment.

Sincerely,

Carl F Brady
