7 human-readable format, providing the requested information to the consumer in a
8 format that is easily readable by a human; and

16 method for submitting requests may include a mailing address, electronic mail
17 address, Internet website, Internet website portal, toll-free telephone number, other

31 (2) identify in writing the personal information subject to a disclosure request; the information disclosed must

(A) cover the 12-month period preceding the request, or another applicable period designated by the consumer;

(g) A business may disclose or provide confirmation of deletion of information to the consumer by mail, through the consumer's account with the business, or electronically at the consumer's request if the consumer does not have an account with the business.

(h) Notwithstanding any other requirement in this section, if a consumer's requests are manifestly unfounded or excessive, in particular because of the requests' repetitive character, a business may either charge a reasonable fee, taking into account the administrative costs of complying with the consumer's request, or refuse to act on the request. The business shall notify the consumer of a decision to charge a fee or to deny a request within the timeline provided under (e)(3) and (4) and (f) of this section. The notification must completely explain the business's reason for finding the request manifestly unfounded or excessive, including all pertinent facts. The business shall bear the burden of proving that a consumer's request is manifestly unfounded or excessive.

(i) A business is not required to respond to a disclosure or deletion request under AS 45.48.825 or 45.48.830 if the consumer making the request has made two consumer requests in the previous 365 days.

Sec. 45.48.855. Third-party disclosure and handling of personal information. (a) A third party may not disclose personal information to another person if the personal information was originally collected in violation of AS 45.48.800 or 45.48.835. A third party that reasonably inquires into whether personal information was collected in violation of AS 45.48.800 or 45.48.835, and reasonably concludes that information was not obtained in violation of AS 45.48.800 or 45.48.835 may not be held liable for a violation under this section.
