Subject: Support for SB 104, Civil Legal Services Fund

Dear Senator Dunbar,

The Alaska Native Justice Center (“ANJC”) is an Alaska Native Tribal organization established in 1993 to address Alaska Native people’s unmet needs within the civil and criminal justice system, in response to the increasingly disproportionate rates of victimization, incarceration, and other justice-related issues impacting Alaska Native people statewide. ANJC offers justice related services to Native people, regardless of Tribal affiliation or original home area and our mission is Justice for Alaska Native people.

We are pleased to offer our support for SB 104, a bill to amend AS 37.05.590 (the statute creating the Civil Legal Services Fund) so that up to 25% of the filing fees paid annually to the Alaska Court System can be appropriated by the Legislature to the civil legal services fund each year to provide access to civil legal aid for low-income Alaskans with critical legal needs. Increasing the appropriation percentage from 10% to 25% will positively impact Alaska’s most vulnerable populations and ensure that access to justice in Alaska does not depend on how much money you have.

Alaska Legal Services Corporation (ALSC) is a nonprofit civil legal aid agency that would benefit from this legislation. ALSC has provided no-cost civil legal assistance to low-income Alaskans for 55 years. Legal assistance is provided statewide to assure Alaskans, especially those at greatest social and economic risk, have access to the civil justice system. For low-income Alaskans, there are few places to seek justice to protect their livelihood, their health, or their family. Without these vital legal services, low-income Alaskans are at increased risk of losing their home, healthcare, access to food, or even the ability to be protected from abuse. Left unresolved, these issues have devastating consequences and impact the overall health and safety of our communities.

Support for SB 104, Civil Legal Services Fund

Since the original passage of 37.05.590, the community need and demand for legal services has only increased. Demand for help continues to exceed supply, with many Alaskans turned away due to a lack of resources with no other option for affordable legal help. Without sufficient funding to allow full access to necessary legal services, people are subject to unfair treatment and are not able to fully utilize the justice system. SB 104 will be a positive step towards meeting the current need for services.

Thank you for championing this important legislation to improve access to the civil justice system.

Sincerely,

Alex Cleghorn
Senior Legal and Policy Director
Alaska Native Justice Center

AVCP is the largest tribal consortium in the Nation, with 56 federally recognized tribes as members. We are headquartered in Bethel, Alaska, which is the hub community of the Yukon-Kuskokwim Delta (YK-Delta) located in southwest Alaska. There are 48 villages in the YK-Delta, which are spread along the Yukon River, Kuskokwim River, and the Bering Sea Coast – an area the size of the State of New York. The population in our region is approximately 27,000 and growing, with a median age of 25. The YK-Delta is “off-the-road system”; travel into our region is by plane or barge, and travel within the region is by small aircraft, boat, snow machine trails, or the ice road. Just this past year, our region was hit by Typhoon Merbok. Our villages are also struggling with food insecurity because of the salmon crisis on the Yukon and the Kuskokwim.

Our tribes' top priorities are public safety; economic development; community wellness; transportation and infrastructure; subsistence, natural resources, and the environment. In supporting our member Tribes and their citizens we often rely on or partner with Alaska Legal Services Corporation (ALSC) for vital legal services throughout our region. ALSC's work supports AVCP's priorities by providing legal services to Alaskans throughout our region.

to be protected from abuse. These unresolved issues have devastating consequences when left unresolved and impact the overall health and safety of our communities.

Tribal citizens dealing with domestic violence, housing issues, benefits issues, or other civil legal matters regularly apply for help with ALSC. If, and too often when, ALSC cannot help them because of limited capacity and overwhelming demand, families in our region are left without any legal assistance. Helping Tribal Citizens through these issues helps prevent homelessness, support children and families, and protect the vulnerable from financial exploitation.

Since the original passage of 37.05.590, the community need and demand for legal services has only increased. Demand for help continues to exceed supply, with many Alaskans turned away due to lack of resources with no other option for affordable legal help. Without sufficient funding to allow full access to necessary services, individuals are too often subject to unfair treatment and are not able to fully use the justice system. SB 104 is a positive step towards assisting vulnerable Alaskans around the state.

Conclusion

Too often we talk about people as numbers. We count and estimate the number of people who cannot receive legal services. But each of these numbers is a person –a child, a parent, an elder, a fisherman, a business owner, a young adult. A person who is seeking assistance. We see the results from ALSC's assistance in mothers who are legally protected from domestic violence, veterans who get assistance with housing or medical care, or elders who have been victimized by financial fraud, or so many other Tribal Citizens and Alaskans who receive help. When you are considering the impact of this legislation and the passage of SB 104, AVCP urges the legislature to remember that every number is a person that this bill will help.

Thank you for championing this vital legislation for vulnerable Alaskans throughout the state including within our region.

Sincerely,

THE ASSOCIATION OF VILLAGE COUNCIL PRESIDENTS
