Overview

SB 58: Postpartum Medicaid Extension

What is Postpartum Medicaid Extension?

- SB 58 extends postpartum Medicaid coverage for new mothers from 60 days to 12 months.
- The original 60 days postpartum period for Medicaid came from Congress in 1986. The data are clear: postpartum health issues occur far beyond 60 days.
- SB 58 is an evidence-based action that supports growing families and will improve maternal health outcomes for Alaskans.
- Continued health care coverage is associated with detection and early intervention which improve long-term maternal and child health outcomes.

What Are the Stakes?

The United States is the only developed country where maternal mortality rates are worsening.

Maternal Mortality Ratios in Selected Countries
(2018 or Latest Year)

What Are the Stakes?

- Pregnancy-related deaths occur well beyond the 60-day postpartum period.
- 29% of pregnancy-related deaths in the U.S. – not including those caused by accidents, homicides, and suicides – occur 43 to 365 days postpartum.
- For every pregnancy-related death, there are 70 to 80 cases of severe maternal illness and morbidity in the postpartum period.
- Medicaid-enrolled women are especially vulnerable to pregnancy-related death as they are more likely to experience chronic conditions, pre-term or low-weight births, and severe maternal morbidity.

Pregnancy-Associated Deaths in Alaska

- In 2021, Alaska's overall pregnancy-associated death rate exceeded the previous 5-year average by 109%
- Among deaths in 2015-2019: 73% occurred >6 weeks post-delivery
- Among deaths reviewed by Alaska's Maternal and Child Death Review (MCDR) committee during 2016-2022, 88% were potentially preventable, and 44% were associated with barriers to health care access

What Can Alaska Do About It?

Section 9812 of the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) added the time-limited option for allowing states to extend postpartum coverage from the required 60 days to 12 months for eligible beneficiaries through March 1, 2027.

The Consolidated Appropriations Act of 2023 (CAA-2023) revised ARPA to make the optional coverage extension permanent.

Why a Bill?

- The Legislature must approve all optional groups for Medicaid coverage in statute AS 47.07.020
- Women who are eligible for Medicaid in Alaska based on their pregnancy currently only receive coverage for 60 days postpartum
- In Alaska, 51% of births are covered by Medicaid

Benefits to Alaskans

■ Improves maternal health outcomes

- Prevents gaps in health care coverage and improves health care access

■ Improves maternal mental health

- Mental health conditions contributed to 31% of pregnancy-associated deaths in Alaska between 2014 and 2018
- 14% of Alaskan mothers who had a baby in 2020 had symptoms of postpartum depression

■ Addresses disparities in maternal health outcomes

- Medicaid plays a vital role in addressing disparities in maternal mortality and morbidity rates

■ Improves child health outcomes

- Parental enrollment in Medicaid is associated with a 29 % higher probability that a child will receive an annual well-child visit

Cost Savings

- The costs for providing Medicaid coverage for new mothers who would have otherwise lost or experienced a gap in coverage have been estimated using historical Medicaid claims data, but these costs do not take into account potential savings and offsetting factors.
- Savings from averted severe maternal morbidity: Medicaid-enrolled pregnant women with severe maternal morbidity cost an average of $10,134 annually compared to $6,894 for those without.
- Savings from prevention: Preventing gaps in coverage ensures access to primary and preventive care, including management of chronic conditions and screening for mental health conditions, substance use, and intimate partner violence.
