Greetings All;

The only thing worse than losing a loved one in service to our country, is to lose that loved one again to an ungrateful nation. There are two things that Gold Star families want to know. That the sacrifice of their loved one was not in vain, and that these sacrifices will not be forgotten.

In the over two-hundred-year history of our nation we have built monuments, memorials, and erected statues to recognize individuals, deeds, and events. Yet less than 5% of American citizens will ever see them. Never once has there been a symbol, that recognizes with dignity and respect the sacrifices of those military men and women that have died in the line of duty. While preserving and defending all the freedoms we enjoy each and every day.

Recognizing that the state of Alaska unanimously passed resolution (HJR 53) on June 7, 2010, supporting passage of national adoption of the Honor and Remember flag. And Alaska has a history of supporting our Military and First Responder communities.

I urge you to take positive action by adopting as state symbols both the Honor and Remember and the Honor and Sacrifice Flags. That by such action we will reassure the surviving families and comrades, that their fallen will not be forgotten, and their sacrifices were not in vain.

Thanking you for your time, consideration, and favorable passage of this piece of legislation before you.

Greetings All;

The only thing worse than losing a loved one in service to our country, is to lose that loved one again to an ungrateful nation. There are two things that Gold Star families want to know. That the sacrifice of their loved one was not in vain, and that these sacrifices will not be forgotten.

In the over two-hundred-year history of our nation we have built monuments, memorials, and erected statues to recognize individuals, deeds, and events. Yet less than 5% of American citizens will ever see them. Never once has there been a symbol, that recognizes with dignity and respect the sacrifices of those military men and women that have died in the line of duty. While preserving and defending all the freedoms we enjoy each and every day.

Recognizing that the state of Alaska unanimously passed resolution (HJR 53) on June 7, 2010, supporting passage of national adoption of the Honor and Remember flag. And Alaska has a history of supporting our Military and First Responder communities.

I urge you to take positive action by adopting as state symbols both the Honor and Remember and the Honor and Sacrifice Flags. That by such action we will reassure the surviving families and comrades, that their fallen will not be forgotten, and their sacrifices were not in vain.
