FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2025 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

BILL NO. HB 89

Analysis

This bill creates a new type of protective order for gun violence. The bill allows peace officers or household members who reasonably believe a person is a danger to self or others by having a firearm to petition the court for a gun violence protective order.

The bill requires the law enforcement agency to retain any surrendered firearms or ammunition until the gun violence protective order expires, and then requires the agency to return the firearms and ammunition to the respondent.

The Department of Public Safety (DPS) will provide for secure storage space for firearms surrendered under protective orders. It would be ideal to maintain the firearms in the communities in which the respondent resides to conveniently pick up and return the firearms as this legislation requires without shipping costs or delays. Storage space in outlying posts is at maximum capacity. In order to store the firearms in outlying posts, DPS will need to identify a centralized evidence storage option in a central location, such as Anchorage, for small amounts of evidence to be transferred and stored. There will be a cost associated with a lease for an evidence storage, as well as methods of transferring firearms, such as the postal service or department aircraft.

(Costs in Thousands)

Centralized Storage in Anchorage	$66.0 annually for 2,000 square feet at $2.75 per square foot
One Time Storage Set Up	$60.0 for racks, loading area, modifications for ammunition storage
Transportation of Evidence	$50.0 for shipping and department aircraft transfers of evidence
