SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 41

Relating to direct purchase of salmon from Alaska canneries.

Be It Resolved by the Senate:

WHEREAS the consumption of canned salmon in Alaska and in the Nation in general is of vital economic importance to the state; and

WHEREAS, although Alaska is the prime national source of canned salmon and the product of its salmon fishery is canned in Alaska, the Alaska retailer and consumer must pay an extraordinarily high price for this domestic product; and

WHEREAS the high shelf price for canned salmon in Alaska results from the practice of sending the canned salmon to Seattle from various Alaska points and then reshipping it back to its source; and

WHEREAS the shelf price would be lowered and consumption increased if canned salmon could be bought directly from canneries in Alaska;

BE IT RESOLVED that the Alaska State Chamber of Commerce is earnestly requested to use its good offices to determine if and how Alaskan retailers can secure Alaskan canned salmon and other Alaska seafood products directly from the cannery source and thus encourage the use and reasonable sale of our own fishery resources.

WHEREAS Alaska is already covered with a variety of federal land withdrawals and reservations; and

WHEREAS the proposal for Admiralty Island is another example of the continuing bottling up of Alaska's natural resources without reference to the economic well-being of the state and the broad interests of the Nation; and

WHEREAS the resources on the public lands of Alaska should be inventoried and a multiple-use plan developed before further withdrawals are made;

BE IT RESOLVED that the Honorable Orville L. Freeman, Secretary of Agriculture, the Honorable Stewart L. Udall, Secretary of the Interior, and the members of the Alaska delegation in Congress are respectfully requested to see that Admiralty Island and the other timber and min-
