ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)

This legislation creates the new crime of "violation of condition of release." The Dept. of Corrections believes this new crime will have a small impact on the number of offenders in DOC custody and therefore is submitting an indeterminate fiscal note. Under current law, if offenders violate their conditions of release they cannot be arrested unless a new crime is committed. This presents a problem for law enforcement and public safety. If passed, this legislation would allow for an immediate arrest and return to custody of violators and a decrease in the risk to the public safety. Under current law the offender would eventually be returned to custody. This is simply a more efficient method of removing an offender from the community immediately upon violation as opposed to waiting for the offender to be brought before the Court. If an offender is convicted of this new crime, they will most likely receive a concurrent sentence. A small fraction may receive sentences in addition to their original conviction resulting in a small cost to DOC.
