ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)

This department's operational activities are not generally those of a "regulatory" agency. The occasional regulations promulgated by the department generally involve clarification of the day-to-day process of implementing statutorily created or amended programs. Consequently, the implementation of these regulations would involve minimal cost-benefit analysis, if any, and are not likely to lead to court actions. The department believes this legislation would not have significant fiscal impact on the department.
