ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)

CS SB requires that the department prepare a cost benefit analysis of the costs to the public to comply with regulatory changes (adoption, amendment, repeal), and the benefits to the public from the proposed regulatory action. This legislation would require a new regulations specialist position be established for the research, interpretation and evaluation of statutes and regulations. Expertise in preparing cost benefit analysis does not exist within the department. The legislation would require that a new economist position be established to complete this work. The fiscal note estimates the cost of a Regulations Specialist II (R16) and an Economist I (R18) and contractual costs associated with legal services.
