ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)

Assisted living Homes (formerly known as Adult Residential Care) are a cost-effective alternative to institutional care for individuals choosing to remain in their home communities. The FY2000 budget is $622.2. 7AAC 47.450-470 governs the fee structure for Assisted Living Homes and has not been revised since 1982. The lack of cost of care adjustments to the ALH's fee structure jeopardizes the health and safety of residents and the future of ALH's options. This bill would require the Department of Health & Social Services, Division of Mental Health & Developmental Disabilities (DMHDD) to increase the rate paid to ALHs under the existing general relief assistance program for 131 consumers to a base rate of $75/day in FY01. The number of individuals receiving support for ALH services varies each year. This fiscal note would include a geographic cost of living differential (an analysis without the geographic differential is also attached). An augmented rate of $35/day would be paid for 26 (20%) of consumers from the total population of 131 consumers. The augmented rate covers care of consumers with increased service needs. A personal needs allowance would be paid at $100/month for all consumers. Both DMHDD and the Division of Senior Services are requesting this increase from $75/month.
