ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)

By increasing the maximum onshore acreage to 750,000 but limiting the 250,000 acreage increase to south of the Umiat Meridian Baseline, companies would be able to lease and explore acreage in some of Alaska's frontier basins while still maintaining their interests on the North Slope.

No increase in cost to the state is expected as a result of the transfer of the auditor functions from DOR to DNR. DOR will RSA the funds to DNR for FY04. DOR will do a budget transfer for FY05.
