ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)

Sections 1-6 amend the statutes relating to criminal nonsupport and aiding and abetting nonsupport. The bill increases each offense to a felony if certain conditions are met. Also, the bill eliminates the requirement that the children be under the age of 18, thus allowing CSED to pursue criminal non support for children who have turned 18 but are still subject to a support order for adult disabled children.

Section 9 permits CSED investigators to be peace officers and carry firearms. Section 12 amends the statute relating to the modification of administrative support orders to eliminate the requirement that there be a material change in circumstances before a modification is granted if more that three years have passed since the order was last issued or modified.

Passage of this legislation will have an indeterminate fiscal impact on law. Any time a penalty is raised

FISCAL NOTE #3

STATE OF ALASKA
2004 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

BILL NO. CSHB 514(JUD)

ANALYSIS CONTINUATION

from a misdemeanor to a felony, it is more time and resource intensive to prosecute. Additionally, CSED investigators acting as "peace officers" and carrying firearms increases tort liability exposure for the State which raises fiscal implications that we are similarly unable to quantify.
