ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)

The legislation raises criminal penalties for crimes committed in violation of AS 11.41 and AS 11.46 when the victim was 65 years of age or older at the time of the crime. There is no statewide data readily available to indicate the number of victims in Alaska who were 65 years of age or older at the time the crime was committed in the offense categories covered by the legislation. It is presumed that because the legislation does increase the penalties for crimes committed in violation of AS 11.41 and AS 11.46, the passage of the legislation will have some fiscal impact on the department, but due to the lack of available statistical information, the department is unable to determine whether the impact will be significant or insignificant. Therefore, the fiscal impact to the Department of Corrections is indeterminate.
