ANALYSIS CONTINUATION

This legislation relates to the crime of failure to appear, arrest for violating certain conditions of release, release before trial, before sentence, and pending appeal, material witnesses, temporary release, petition to revoke probation, first appearances, and domestic violence protective orders.

DOC projects there will be a shift of burden from the sentenced facilities to the State and Community Jails that house the unsentenced population during the adjudication process. While the total impact of the mandays of incarceration may not be significant when calculating time served for those convicted, there will be a significant increased number of mandays in the small jails. It is difficult for DOC to quantify the impact due to the multiple variables under this scenario, e.g. transportation costs from rural areas, medical costs based on need, plea bargains, dismissed cases, etc.
