FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2015 LEGISLATIVE SESSIONAnalysis

This legislation allows a court to grant a person credit against a sentence of imprisonment for time spent on electronic monitoring while released on bail if the court imposes certain restrictions on the person's freedom of movement and behavior. Those restrictions include being confined to a residence except for court appearances, meetings with their attorney, or other times expressly granted by the court such as for employment or volunteer work.

The legislation also establishes a mitigator at sentencing for persons who complete an alcohol or substance abuse monitoring program while released on bail before their trial.

The Department of Law does not anticipate a fiscal impact.
