FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2015 LEGISLATIVE SESSIONAnalysis

The Child Support Services Division is currently operating under UIFSA 1996, which was passed into law in 1995 and is contained in its entirety in Alaska Statutes 25.25.101 - 25.27.900. In July 2008, amendments to UIFSA (from the 2001 National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws) were approved. This version is referred to as UIFSA 2008.

The primary difference between the 1996 version and UIFSA 2008 is the inclusion of the Hague Convention on the International Recovery of Child Support. The Hague Treaty cannot be adopted until all of the states have passed UIFSA 2008 and the act is ratified by congress and the President. The Hague treaty applies to cases worked between countries that are part of the treaty. The treaty provides a vehicle and definitions for working child support cases between participating countries.

The bill also cleans up language and clarifies jurisdictional issues regarding controlling child support orders.

Passage of the bill will not have a significant impact on the Alaska child support services agency procedures or workload. It is hoped that it help with collections between countries and smooth out the paperwork processes and difficulties.

P.L. 113-183, the Preventing Sex Trafficking and Strengthening Families Act, was signed into law on September 29, 2014. The law amends section 466(f) of the Social Security Act, requiring all states to enact UIFSA 2008 verbatim by July 1, 2015.
