FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2020 LEGISLATIVE SESSIONAnalysis

HB 232 would create an air quality improvement tax credit and an energy efficient new construction tax credit that could be adopted by municipalities. The tax credits would offset a portion of property taxes on a property that had been improved during the immediately preceding tax year, if the property was improved in ways that improve the air quality or was improved with energy efficient new construction.

The Division of Community and Regional Affairs does not anticipate a fiscal impact from this bill.
