THIRTY-FIRST LEGISLATURE
SECOND SESSION

Juneau, Alaska

Monday

January 27, 2020

Seventh Day

Pursuant to adjournment the Senate was called to order by President Giessel at 11:03 a.m.

The roll showed nineteen members present. Senator Kawasaki was absent.

Senator Begich moved and asked unanimous consent Senator Kawasaki be excused from a call of the Senate today. Without objection, Senator Kawasaki was excused.

The prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Reverend Michael Grubbs, Ordained Deacon, Holy Trinity Church. Senator Coghill moved and asked unanimous consent the prayer be spread. Without objection, it was so ordered.

Eternal and gracious God,

You have bound us together in common life. Help us in our struggles for right action, justice and truth to work together with mutual forbearance and respect.

Creator God, the source of all wisdom, we ask you to bless this Senate of the State of Alaska. We ask that they may create just laws that address the welfare of our citizens and likewise the needs and protection of our great lands.

We ask that those whom we entrust with the authority of government be gifted with understanding and the empowerment of wisdom. Help us to lift our neighbors in need. We pray for our citizens and friends who live with the constant awareness and reality of injustice, terror, disease and addiction. With your Grace, help us to help them.

Strengthen those who are entrusted with establishing equal protection of the law and equal opportunities for all. Help them remain strong and focused as they address the complex and difficult work that lies ahead.

Bless our Senators of the State of Alaska. Grant them increased trust in one another, empower their quest for justice and bring them to unity and common purpose for the benefit of all.

With your empowerment, establish cooperation leading to right action. May the spirit of leadership abide with every member here.

With humility, confidence and faith, I ask this in your name, Amen.

Senator Stedman led the Senate in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Certification

Senator Hoffman moved and asked unanimous consent the journals for the fourth through sixth legislative days, Senate Journal Supplement No. 7 and House and Senate Joint Journal Supplement No. 11 be approved as certified by the Secretary. Without objection, it was so ordered.

SB 164

SENATE BILL NO. 164 BY THE SENATE RULES COMMITTEE
BY REQUEST OF THE GOVERNOR, entitled:

"An Act relating to the crime of impersonating a peace officer; relating to the powers of the Alaska Police Standards Council; relating to the definition of 'village police officer'; and providing for an effective date."

was read the first time and referred to the State Affairs and Finance Committees.

The following fiscal information was published today:

Fiscal Note No. 1, zero, Department of Public Safety

Governor's transmittal letter dated January 24:

Dear President Giessel:

Under the authority of Article III, Section 18, of the Alaska Constitution, I am transmitting a bill relating to Police Standards in Alaska. This bill will ensure that Alaska has rigorous, enforceable standards for the employment of police and village police officers throughout Alaska.

The bill proposes amendments to AS 18.65, Police Protection, to provide that a person may not be appointed as a police or village police officer if the person has been convicted of a felony, a sex offense defined in AS 12.63.100, or a crime involving domestic violence as defined in AS 18.66.990. The legislation further clarifies that the Alaska Police Standards Council has the power to set standards for employment for village police officers by regulation and may investigate when there is reason to believe an officer or a village police officer does not meet minimum standards for employment. In addition, this bill would include a definition for village police officer in statute.

Establishing in law the standards and qualifications for the employment of police and village police officers, will ensure that individuals who are appointed to these important positions of trust and authority in our communities, are qualified to hold such a position.

I urge your prompt and favorable action on this important public safety measure.

Sincerely,

/s/

Mike Dunleavy
Governor

SENATE BILL NO. 165 BY THE SENATE RULES COMMITTEE
BY REQUEST OF THE GOVERNOR, entitled:

"An Act relating to sex trafficking; establishing the crime of patron of a victim of sex trafficking; relating to the crime of human trafficking; relating to sentencing for sex trafficking and patron of a victim of sex trafficking; establishing the process for a vacation of judgment for a conviction of prostitution; and providing for an effective date."

was read the first time and referred to the State Affairs, Judiciary and Finance Committees.

Governor's transmittal letter dated January 24:

Dear President Giessel:

Under the authority of Article III, Section 18, of the Alaska Constitution, I am transmitting a bill relating to sex trafficking and human trafficking; establishing the crime of "Patron of a Victim of Sex Trafficking;" and creating a process for a victim of sex trafficking who has been convicted of prostitution to have that conviction vacated.

Alaska's sex trafficking and human trafficking statutes do not adequately address the serious nature of these offenses or provide sufficient protections for underage victims. The language in these statutes is archaic and no longer addresses the realities faced by individuals who are forced into the labor or sex trade; creating situations where victims are unaided and perpetrators go undetected.

The proposed legislation will restructure the human trafficking and sex trafficking statutes to better address the realities of how these offenses are committed and protect underage victims. The bill increases the penalties for all forms of trafficking, leaving the most serious classification for those who use force or traffic an underage person. Additionally, sex trafficking of all degrees will be a sex offense subject to the increased penalties for sex offenses and require registration as a sex offender. The legislation also establishes the new crime of "Patron of a Victim of Sex Trafficking." While it is crucial to target those who traffic individuals, it is equally important to address those who create a demand for victims of sex trafficking; specifically underage victims of sex trafficking.

Finally, the legislation establishes a mechanism by which a person who has been convicted of prostitution can get that conviction vacated if they were a victim of sex trafficking at the time of the prostitution offense. The threat of being charged with a crime is often a tactic that traffickers will use to continue to control their victims. It is important for society to recognize that these victims often have no other choice, and they should not be treated as criminals when they are, in fact, victims themselves.

Human trafficking and sex trafficking are insidious, and these crimes ruin lives. It is time that our laws adequately address the devastation this predatory conduct has on our society and protect those who need it most. I urge your prompt and favorable action on this measure.

Sincerely,

/s/

SENATE BILL NO. 166 BY THE SENATE RULES COMMITTEE
BY REQUEST OF THE GOVERNOR, entitled:

"An Act amending the authority of pretrial services officers to file charges, make a warrantless arrest, or request the court to issue a warrant for arrest for escape in the third degree; and providing for an effective date."

was read the first time and referred to the State Affairs and Judiciary Committees.

The following fiscal information was published today:

Fiscal Note No. 1, zero, Department of Public Safety

Fiscal Note No. 2, zero, Department of Corrections

Governor's transmittal letter dated January 24:

Dear President Giessel:

Under the authority of Article III, Section 18, of the Alaska Constitution, I am transmitting a bill amending the authority of pretrial services officers to make arrests, file charges, and request warrants from the court for defendants who commit Escape in the Third Degree.

Under current law, pretrial services officers may only arrest, file criminal charges, or request a warrant when a person violates a condition of pretrial release (AS 11.56.757) or fails to appear for a court hearing (AS 11.56.730). However, defendants often violate their conditions of release by removing their electronic monitoring bracelet, which upgrades the offense to Escape in the Third Degree, a Class C felony. Since pretrial services officers are unable to arrest, file charges, or request warrants for this offense, they must notify law enforcement or a prosecutor who must then gather the information from the pretrial services officer in order to file charges or request a warrant.

Adding Escape in the Third Degree to the list of offenses that a pretrial services officer can arrest, file charges, or request a warrant for will streamline the process and allow warrants to be issued and charges to be filed in a more timely manner.

I urge your prompt and favorable action on this measure.

Sincerely,

SENATE BILL NO. 167 BY THE SENATE RULES COMMITTEE
BY REQUEST OF THE GOVERNOR, entitled:

"An Act providing for an aggravating factor at sentencing for contractors, volunteers, and employees of the Department of Corrections; and providing for an effective date."

was read the first time and referred to the State Affairs Committee.

The following fiscal information was published today:

Fiscal Note No. 1, zero, Department of Public Safety

Fiscal Note No. 2, zero, Department of Law

Fiscal Note No. 3, zero, Department of Corrections

Governor's transmittal letter dated January 24:

Dear President Giessel:

Under the authority of Article III, Section 18, of the Alaska Constitution, I am transmitting a bill establishing an aggravator at sentencing for defendants who are contractors, volunteers, or employees of the Department of Corrections and bring contraband into a prison facility during the course of their employment.

Contractors, volunteers, and employees of the Department of Corrections are able to obtain security clearances, which assist them in the performance of their duties. These clearances require a certain level of trust. When a contractor, volunteer, or employee of the department violates that trust by using their clearance to bring contraband into our prisons an enhanced penalty should apply.

The bill will establish an aggravator at sentencing which the court may apply when a defendant is convicted of promoting contraband and the offense occurred in the course of the person's contractual, volunteer, or employment duties. The aggravator, if proven, would allow the court to sentence the person above the presumptive sentencing range for promoting contraband, up to the maximum term.

Contraband in our prisons seriously undermines the safety and security of correctional facilities. Those who are held in a position of trust know the rules and should be held to a higher standard.

I urge your prompt and favorable action on this measure.

Sincerely,

the duty to register as a sex offender or child kidnapper; relating to petitions for removal from a registry that is published on the Internet; relating to the definitions of 'tier I sex offense,' 'tier II sex offense or child kidnapping,' and 'tier III sex offense or child kidnapping'; amending the definition of 'sex offense'; relating to the jurisdiction of the Court of Appeals; establishing Rule 35.3, Alaska Rules of Criminal Procedure; and providing for an effective date."

Fiscal Note No. 6, Department of Administration

Governor's transmittal letter dated January 24:

Dear President Giessel:

Under the authority of Article III, Section 18, of the Alaska Constitution, I am transmitting a bill redefining registration periods for sex offenders and child kidnappers and allowing for a sex offender or child kidnapper to have their information removed from an Internet registry.

In June of 2019, the Alaska Supreme Court issued an opinion regarding the registration requirements imposed by Alaska's Sex Offender Registration Act (ASORA). Doe v. Department of Public Safety, 2019 WL 2480282 (Alaska 2019). In essence, the court held that ASORA is overbroad because it imposes lengthy registration requirements on all persons convicted of registerable sex offenses without affording them a hearing in which they might show that they are no longer dangerous and, therefore, should not be required to continue to register. The court stopped short of invalidating the entire ASORA. However, individuals on the registry may now petition the court for an opportunity to demonstrate that they are not dangerous and should be removed. There are virtually no guidelines in case law or statute to guide the court through this process. Therefore, the bill establishes the framework for these hearings in statute.

Under the bill, sex offenders and child kidnappers will be categorized into three different tiers based on the type of offense they have been convicted of. The tier will determine the length of the registration period. Tier I offenders will need to register for 10 years, Tier II offenders will need to register for 15 years, and Tier III offenders will need to register for life. An offender who is no longer on probation or parole may petition the court to have their information removed from the Internet registry. Before an offender may petition the court, they must have first registered with the Department of Public Safety for the previous five years for a Tier I offender, 10 years for a Tier II offender, and 15 years for a Tier III offender. In addition, the offender must have completed all treatment programs required by the court or the parole board and cannot have been convicted of an offense, attempt, solicitation, or conspiracy of any of the following offenses since being convicted for the offense that has required the person to register:

- (i) a crime against a person under AS 11.41;
- (ii) a violation by sex offender of condition of probation under AS 11.56.759;
- (iii) sending an explicit image of a minor under AS 11.61.116;
- (iv) cruelty to animals under AS 11.61.140;
- (v) misconduct involving weapons under AS 11.61.190 – 11.61.250;
- (vi) a sex offense or child kidnapping as defined in AS 12.63.100; or
- (vii) a crime of domestic violence under AS 18.66.990.

In order to issue an order requiring the Department of Public Safety to remove the offender's information from the Internet registry, the court must find by clear and convincing evidence that (1) the registration and compliance requirements outlined in statute have been satisfied; (2) the sex offender or child kidnapper is unlikely to commit another sex offense or child kidnapping; and (3) continued registration on a registry, that is published on the Internet, is not necessary for the protection of the public. The bill only allows an offender to be removed from an Internet registry. The offender must continue to register with the Department of Public Safety, which means law enforcement will continue to have the registration information in order to protect the public.

Without this legislation, the parameters for removal will be established slowly by the courts through an enormous amount of litigation. By establishing parameters in statute and only allowing the offender's information to be removed from an Internet registry, this bill can effectuate the holding in Doe in a way that continues to protect the public.

I urge your prompt and favorable action on this measure.

Sincerely,

/s/

Mike Dunleavy
Governor
