FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2021 LEGISLATIVE SESSIONAnalysis

This legislation adds a section to the financial disclosure statutes regarding the Alaska Online Checkbook. It states that the online checkbook shall be searchable and accessible to the public at no cost, provide financial information available from the central accounting system and data warehouse, and it requires the website to be updated on a monthly basis.

Passage of this legislation will require the Division of Finance (DOF) to secure a contractor to map and complete a new website that interacts with the finance software known as Integrated Resource Information System (IRIS), the data warehouse, and the state financial reporting tool (ALDER). IRIS is currently in the process of being upgraded and is expected to conclude on 1/31/2022. The contractors who would be consulting and developing the checkbook online system would be the same contractors currently working on the IRIS upgrade. Once IRIS is upgraded and stabilized, DOF could begin implementation of the new and robust checkbook online. Additional consulting and development costs are expected to be a minimum of $400,000 and take approximately 8 months.
