Fifty-first Day

Pursuant to adjournment the House was called to order by Speaker Stutes at 10:34 a.m.

Roll call showed 40 members present.

The invocation was offered by the Chaplain, Representative Story. Representative Thompson moved and asked unanimous consent that the invocation be spread on the journal. There being no objection, it was so ordered.

With the deepest respect for the beliefs of all Alaskans, I offer this prayer:

Dear Lord,

We come before you grateful for this new day and the opportunities before us.

Please watch over our families and loved ones. Bless them as they go about their daily routines as we do our work. Many of us are grieving the loss of a special person, or hurting for others who we know have lost loved ones, and we ask for comfort and strength for all.

We pray for those who are ill right now or injured in any way and ask that they get good medical care and the support that they need for healing. Please watch over the Iditarod racers and volunteers. We especially ask for healing for veteran racer Aliy Zirkle as she recovers from her accident.

The Governor's transmittal letter dated March 9 follows:

"Dear Speaker Stutes:

Under the authority of Article III, Section 18, of the Alaska Constitution, I am transmitting a bill repealing the Alaska Marine Transportation Advisory Board and establishing the Alaska Marine Highway Systems Operation and Planning Board.

In 2019, I established the Alaska Marine Highway Reshaping Working Group to deliver recommendations that would allow for the Alaska Marine Highway System to provide essential ferry services to Alaskan coastal communities in the future while reducing state General Fund support.

The Alaska Marine Highway Reshaping Working Group suggested starting fresh with the new Alaska Marine Highway Systems Operation and Planning Board. This restructured Board can provide the skills and experience of long-term operators, with an enhanced ability to increase revenue and reduce costs. Upon initial appointment, these members would serve staggered terms of one to five years. These terms will help the new board create and maintain institutional knowledge, as board membership could not be completely changed in a single administrative term after the members' initial appointment. This Board would also have a new duty – to prepare a long-term operations plan and provide an annual report on its implementation to the governor, the legislature, and the public. The annual reports will address financial information, scheduling, maintenance, regulatory compliance, and other matters. The long-term operations plan should cover long-term marine transportation system objectives, planning assumptions, a timeline for major operations milestones, and new initiatives. The focus will be on initiatives that provide strategic and operational guidance for transportation systems of a similar size and complexity.

I urge your prompt and favorable action on this measure.

Sincerely,

/s/

Mike Dunleavy
Governor"

HB 135

HOUSE BILL NO. 135 by the House Rules Committee by request of the Governor, entitled:

"An Act relating to geothermal resources; relating to the definition of 'geothermal resources'; and providing for an effective date."

HOUSE JOURNAL

was read the first time and referred to the Resources and Finance Committees.

The following fiscal note(s) apply:

2. Fiscal, Dept. of Natural Resources

The Governor's transmittal letter dated March 9 follows:

"Dear Speaker Stutes:

Under the authority of Article III, Section 18, of the Alaska Constitution, I am transmitting a bill revising statutes related to the State's geothermal resources.

Alaska's economic prosperity is dependent on our ability to continue to develop our tremendous energy resources. Geothermal is a rising star in Alaska's energy constellation. Geothermal harnesses heat from the earth's core and can power commercial, industrial, and residential activities in some of Alaska's remotest areas. This bill encourages these activities by removing obstacles to exploration and development of Alaska's geothermal resources.

First, it modifies the definition of "geothermal resources." The current definition is defined as only those fluids hotter than 120 degrees Celsius, which ignores technological advances that make lower-temperature geothermal energy commercially viable. For example, Interior Alaska's Chena Hot Springs generates electrical power and supports a thriving visitor business with geothermal energy at approximately 80 degrees Celsius. The current definition also ignores growing non-commercial uses of heat energy, such as heat pumps relying on shallow subsurface pipes to heat or cool residential structures. This updated definition eliminates such arbitrary temperature and other restrictions, making geothermal development more attractive.

The bill also makes Alaska's geothermal energy a more lucrative target for investment by expanding to five years the current two-to-three-year window during which exploration companies must conduct background research, acquire surface use permits, and perform the field work needed to locate a resource and develop the data needed to convert an exploration permit (or license) to a lease supporting commercial development. This bill acknowledges the fact that geothermal resources tend to spread over larger acreages, by nearly doubling the acreage limit for geothermal exploration licenses to 100,000 acres. This will likely draw greater interest from developers grateful for the opportunity to economically explore and develop larger parcels.

Enactment will help Alaska continue to responsibly manage its natural resources, provide alternative energy sources in some of our most remote communities, grow the economy, and generate job creation.

I urge your prompt and favorable action on this measure.

Sincerely,

/s/

Mike Dunleavy
Governor"
