Holy God,

It is with gratitude and humility that I come before you on behalf of this group of men and women, public servants for the great state of Alaska. I pray for their day of work and meeting together, that you would continue to grant them your help, discernment, and wisdom as they work through budget negotiations and decisions. I pray for wisdom in all the issues that come before them. I pray for their health and well-being. I pray for the different personal burdens and struggles they might be carrying in both their professional and personal lives, Lord, that you would intervene on their behalf. I pray for their families that you would bless and help them. And I pray for their staff and all the workers here in our state capitol. Bless their work. Bless their day and bless each of them and their families. I thank you for them and all the work they do to keep things running smoothly.

And I pray for the communities they represent. I pray for the many people struggling with life challenges like COVID, rising costs of living, and various other issues have made life very hard in recent months. I pray that you would guide and help those in need.

Finally, Lord, this last week, as we reflected on your ultimate sacrifice for us, I thank you for your love and your grace available to all who call on your name. I thank you that you love and care about what happens in these meetings and in the very lives of every person in this place.

May they know your love and grace to help and guide them through these days of both challenge and opportunity. Now, may your blessing be upon each person here in this room. I pray this in the name of Jesus, my savior. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Representative Edgmon.
